Lawful Authority

Parents

All parents have powers and responsibilities in relation to their children, which can only be changed by a parenting order, court orders or parenting plan. The Education and Care Services National Regulations, 2011 refer to these powers and responsibilities as "lawful authority". It is not affected by the relationship between the parents, such as whether or not they live together or are married. A parenting order, court order or parenting plan, such as under the Family Law Act, may take away the authority of a parent to do something, or may give it to another person.

A parenting order, court order or parenting plan such as under the Family Law Act 1975 may take away the authority of a parent to do something or may give it to another person.

Guardians

A guardian of a child has lawful authority. A legal guardian is given lawful authority by a parenting order, court order or parenting plan. The definition of "guardian" under the Education and Care Services National Law Act, 2010 also covers situations where a child does not live with his or her parents and there are no parenting orders, court orders or parenting plans. In these cases, the guardian is the person the child lives with who has day-to-day care and control of the child.
